Chuqqat
(Statute)

Miriam died in the wilderness and when she died the water stopped flowing out of the rock, which was traveling with them. This caused the people to begin grumbling again against YHWH and against Moshe.

YHWH commanded Moshe to go into the Set-apart Place and get Aharon's rod that had budded and carry it forth to the rock and speak to the rock and the water would come forth again.

Moshe was angry and when he carried the rod of Aharon out before the people he spoke to the people and chastised them for their grumbling. He then struck the rock twice with Aharon's rod that had budded.

Even though Moshe did not obey YHWH in the way that YHWH had commanded him to bring forth water from the rock, YHWH had mercy upon the people and brought forth water anyway.

However, because of this sin YHWH told both Moshe and Aharon that they would not be able to cross over the Yarden River into the land promised to Avraham and to Yitzchak and to Ya'aqov.
