YHWH was telling Moshe to talk to the Children of Yisrael. He said to honor our fathers and mothers, and to keep His Shabbat, and not turn to idolatry and worship the false gods of the nations around them.

When we pick the fruits and vegetables from our gardens, we need to leave some around the edges of the field for the poor and the stranger.

YHWH commands us not to steal or lie, and to pay those working for us on the very same day of their work.

It is wrong for us to curse the deaf or place a stumbling block before the blind.

We are commanded not to gossip, or watch someone murder our fellowman.

We are told not to crossbreed our animals, mix plants in our gardens, or wear a garment of mixed fibers.

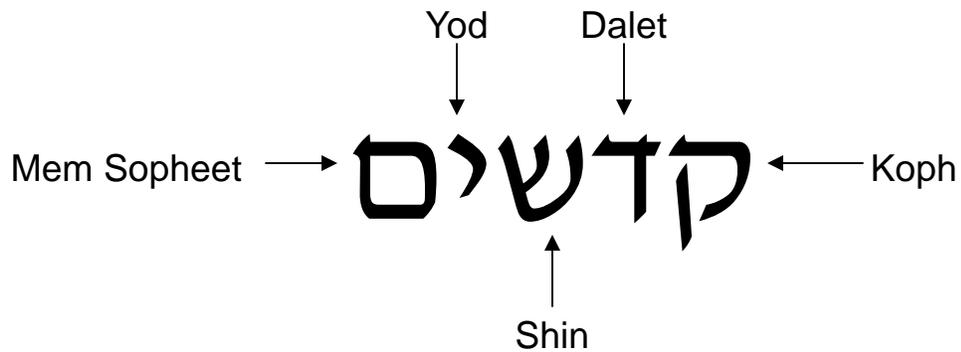

After a fruit tree is planted, we have to wait three years before we can eat its fruit. Then we can eat its fruit in the fourth year.

We are commanded not to do sorcery, shave the corners of our beards, or get tattoos on our bodies.
