Moshe spoke to the Children of Yisrael. He told them that, whoever was motivated, could bring gifts for the things in the Tabernacle. People brought gold and silver, women spun yarn, and craftsmen were selected. Everyone brought something to be used in the building of the Tabernacle and all its furniture. The people gave so much that they had to be told to stop giving.

Work began with the curtains of the Tabernacle, then its cover. They ended with the entrance.

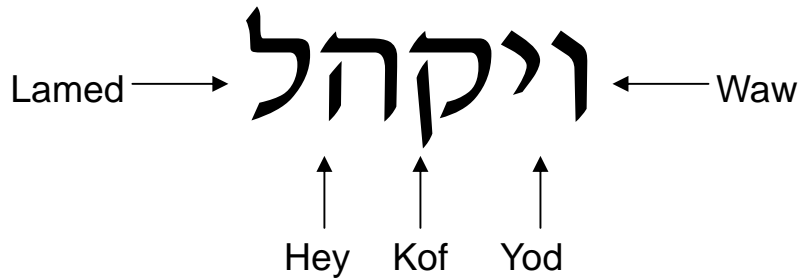

After work on the Tabernacle was complete, the Ark of the Covenant and its cover were made, and after that the table and the menorah. The menorah was made out of one big piece of gold. The incense altar and the burnt offering altar came next.

Last of all, was the courtyard and its gate.
